DELEGATES TO CONVENTION TO WORK RAPIDLY

Must Get 25,000 Voters' Names Before Thursday, May 11

BULLETIN
Springfield, Ill., Apr. 27.—(AP)—The Senate today advanced the prohibition repeal and Chicago tax receivership bills to third reading and made them special orders of business for final passage at a midnight session.

At thirty seconds after midnight the upper house is to pass the administration-sponsored measure for a June 5 vote on ratification of prohibition repeal.

The Skarda bill, advocated by Mayor Kelly of Chicago as a means of ending the tax strike there, was made a special order of business for 12:01 A. M.

It passed, Gov. Horner can sign both bills tomorrow.

Springfield, Ill., Apr. 27.—(AP)—One of the biggest jobs in Illinois tonight would be delegating to the state convention for ratification of prohibition repeal. Candidates must get 25,000 signatures on nominating petitions before May 11.

At midnight the Senate is to pass the Schnackenberg-Sinnett bill calling for the election June 5 of fifty delegates-at-large to a ratification convention.

Governor Horner, at whose insistence the legislature took immediate action and refused to delay the state convention past July 10, will sign the bill tomorrow.

Then fast work will be necessary if nominating petitions are to be signed and filed in time to place full slates of candidates on the June ballot.

Organizations Active
Indications were that wet organizations would take over the responsibility for circulating petitions for proponents of ratification of the national anti-prohibition amendment.

Definite plans had not been announced, but there was a possibility that the slate of fifty candidates would be composed of one Democrat and one Republican from each congressional district.

BEER SALES IN STATE ILLEGAL UNDER NEW LAW

State Demands Split But, As Yet, Can't Collect It

BULLETIN
Springfield, Ill., Apr. 27.—(AP)—The State Department of Finance tomorrow will start the issuance of licenses and permits for retail distribution of legal beer, Director Joseph J. Rice said today.

Working rapidly to make effective the beer regulations which became law upon Governor Horner's signature, Rice said a branch office will be opened in Chicago tomorrow.

Application blanks will also be available through County Clerks.

Springfield, Ill., Apr. 27.—(AP)—The sale of legal beer was technically illegal in many parts of Illinois today, while dealers rushed to obtain the licenses required by the new law which Governor Horner's signature placed on the statute books late yesterday.

State officials took steps to make the emergency law effective as soon as possible. Joseph J. Rice, director of Finance, was expected to announce regulations governing the issuance of beer permits soon.

Application blanks for the $50 state licenses are to be distributed through County Clerks.

Complicating the situation is the fact that many municipalities have not passed beer ordinances, awaiting enactment of the law, which provides that state licenses can be granted only to holders of local permits. No decision has been reached on whether the state would license all applicants, including those from political subdivisions which do not yet have regulating ordinances.

Many points remained unsettled, but legal opinion was that counties could not refuse to issue licenses.

Brewery Bandits Seeking Empties
Chicago—Brewery bandits are after "empties" these days. Two hundred empty barrels were rolled out of the Germania Brewing Company and loaded onto trucks by five gunmen.

And over at the Great Western Beverage Company's plant another gang seized 30 cases of bottles—all empty.

State Acts Tonight
Legislative agreement was reached late yesterday that the Senate would stay in session until after midnight so that final passage could be given the Schnackenberg-Sinnett repeal bill which the House passed yesterday.

LEGISLATION TO BREAK CHICAGO'S TAX STRIKE PLEA

Mayor Kelly Holds Out Hope To City's Unpaid Teachers

Chicago, April 27.—(AP)—Out of the whirlwind of their militant activities there came to Chicago's unpaid teachers today a new ray of hope that their financial privations may come to an end through legislative action.

It came from Mayor Edward J. Kelly, after two days of nervous conditions, which reached peak yesterday when the teachers beat against the barricaded doors of the Chicago Title & Trust Co., besieged the First National Bank, and marched on the city hall, making verbal charges that the city's bankers had refused them aid by failing to release tax warrants.

Unpaid Teacher, Failing In Health, Took Own Life Today
Chicago, April 27.—(AP)—Depressed by failing health and the payless days of Chicago school teachers, Paul Schneider, 44, teacher of manual training at a west side school, shot himself fatally today.

"He had always been talking about the lack of money and worrying how we were going to get along," said his widow, Mrs. Augusta Schneider. "He was a sick man, but attended his classes regularly."

Schneider was lame and carried a cane. Late yesterday his widow said his health had been failing. The couple had three children.

The widow said Schneider owned the building in which they lived and had other properties, but depreciation of values and foreclosures had brought them near poverty. He was eight months behind in pay, credit was exhausted and he had been obtaining groceries from a store that accepted wage assignments from teachers.

MASSACHUSETTS' "SACRED COD" IS REPORTED GONE
State Is In Uproar, Its Emblem Is Stolen From Its Shrine

Boston, April 27.—(AP)—Never before, not even in the early days when the fish was exceedingly vital to the social and economic welfare of Massachusetts—has such a fuss been made over a cod fish. But this is about the "Sacred Cod," that emblem representative of the Bay State's principal early industry that for more than 100 years had occupied honored niches on state property.

The "Sacred Cod" disappeared last night from its place in the Chamber of the State House of Representatives.

State and local police co-operated today in an effort to determine a motive for the theft and to find some trace of the emblem, which is a five-foot representation of a cod fish, carved from wood and coated with silver.

Some of the investigators declined to look across the Charles river toward Harvard University where the students sometimes indulge in "high links." Only yesterday, student members of a rival undergraduate public of the Bay editor of the Crimson and it was considered more than likely that they may have appropriated the "Sacred Cod" at about the same time.

Legislative Committee Plan Would Add DeKalb County To Present Thirteenth District

Joint Body Is Agreed On Reapportionment Of Down State

Springfield, Ill., Apr. 27.—(AP)—Congressional districts in southern Illinois would be left unchanged by a reapportionment plan virtually agreed upon today by the joint legislative committee headed by Rep. Frank McClure, Abingdon Democrat.

Few changes would be made in central Illinois, but northern districts have been considerably relocated. The committee is expected to make its final recommendations in a few days.

Redistricting of Cook county has not been completed. The committee plans to give thirteen Congress members to Cook county, thirteen to downstate Illinois and divide the extra district between southern Cook county and adjacent territory.

Numbers have not been assigned to the proposed districts, which would consist of the following counties:

Winnebago, Boone, McHenry and Lake.
Joe Davies, Stephenson, Carroll, Ogle, Whiteside, Lee and DeKalb, Kane, DuPage, Kendall, Grundy and Will.
Bureau, LaSalle, Stark, Putnam, Marshall, Peoria and Tazewell.
Woodford, Livingston, McLean, Ford, Kankakee, Iroquois and Vermilion.

Circuit Clerk And Amboy Lawyer Are Reminded Of Work
Circuit Clerk Edwin Rosecrans yesterday afternoon, smilingly refused to enter into an athletic contest, despite the fact that he is generally considered quite a fan and follower of sporting events.

The general clerk was selected to demonstrate his prowess by wrestling a young bear which a tourist was exhibiting in the court house and also in the business section of the city.

When the bear placed both huge paws on Rose's shoulders, showing signs of resistance that were not very carefully manufactured, the court official immediately recalled some unfinished business in his office and left the scene.

The bear sized up the crowd and selected Attorney John Buckley of Amboy, who was witnessing the performance, as a likely opponent, but the Amboy barrister likewise had recalled a forgotten engagement which recalled his immediate attention.

Candidate For Supreme Court Sans Cash, Quits
Robinson—The difficulty of raising a campaign fund was one of the reasons given by O. L. Plunkett for his withdrawal as a Republican candidate for the Supreme Court judgeship in the Second District.

MACDONALD HAS FINAL PLEA AS HE SAILS HOME

Urges English-Speaking People To Sit On Same Side

New York, April 27.—(AP)—Prime Minister J. Ramsay MacDonald of Great Britain sailed homeward today, leaving behind him a solemn plea to the American and British peoples to pull together in the struggle back to prosperity.

Addressing a gathering of the Pilgrims of the United States, MacDonald expressed the hope last night that the two English-speaking nations will "sit on the same side of the table" at the international economic conference.

He called for a joint effort to defeat what he termed the "influence of disruption" rampant in the world. He was asking no "alliance," he emphasized.

"An alliance is a bargain," he said. "Of what use is a bargain except for hampering purposes when two hearts are beating in harmony?"

Afterward the Prime Minister, with his daughter Isabel, boarded the liner Berengaria, thus closing the mission on which he came to the United States to discuss with Roosevelt plans for rehabilitating the world. He expressed satisfaction with the results of the visit.

Peering into the future, the Premier expressed a fervent hope that the statesmen of today might so labor that their grand children might experience "golden years."

He paid high tribute to the American President.

FARMER-LABOR REPRESENTATIVE DEMANDS ACTION

Is Not Concerned If The President Would Be Embarrassed

Washington, April 27.—(AP)—One bonus move was deferred in the House and another sprang up there today as the Senate took its way toward a vote on the gold content section of the inflation bill as a preliminary to action on the veterans payment proposal.

Representative Parnham (D. Tex.), author of the bonus measure in the House, agreed to withhold a petition for a Democratic caucus pending a vote in the Senate on the amendment of Senator Robinson (R. Ind.) calling for payment of the bonus out of the $3,000,000,000 of Treasury notes the inflation bill would authorize the President to issue.

Almost immediately Representative Lundeen (F. L. Minn.) announced that he was not concerned about whether the President would be embarrassed by the issue and filed a petition to force a vote in the House.

Debate Resumed

A mocking bird's gold melody,
I am in love with lovely thing.

The silence of the sun-drenched hills,
The golden lamps of daffodils,

The velvet hush of fallen snow,
A still, dark night pierced by the glow
Of amber stads in row on row.

To forms of loveliness each day,
Bright happy children at their play.

Coming Struggle for Power—Strachey. The book is devoted to the thesis that the capitalistic order is doomed to extinction. The author shows how apparently impossible it is to overcome the evils of the monetary system; he points to the intensification of nationalist exclusiveness since the war, and the hopelessness of reviving that more liberal spirit which is essential to the reinvigoration of international trade. Of course he makes the most of the depression, and shows that no way has been devised for putting an end to the recurrent menace of such crises. ### Child Health Week May 1 to 8

Washington, April 27.—Sunshine and proper diet have displaced the annual dose of sulphur and molasses as the children's "spring tonic."

The modern schedule will come in for fresh emphasis when May 1 arrives to open Child Health Week lasting through May 8.

Sun Suits When It's Warm
As for the tonic effect of sunshine, public health officials advise putting the children into sun suits as soon as the days become warm enough.

The sun that tans a child's skin also gives his body power to build straight bones, strong muscles and well formed teeth, says the Children's Bureau.

Children need the sun most when they are growing, and they can get it best in the "sketchy" little sun-suits popular since the health information became general.

The ultra-violet rays, which are the most healthful, do not penetrate ordinary clothing, and the usual type of window glass also impedes them.

Two Types of Food
As for food two types should be remembered, says the Home Economics Bureau in a new schedule, just issued for the health week programs that will be held all over the country.

First, the foods that build the body and resist disease.

Milk, the best all-around body-building food. It safeguards the low-cost diet, preventing pellagra. Dried beans and peas.

Lean meat, fish, poultry, eggs, and cheese are muscle-builders. Eggs are important for children.

Tomatoes, oranges, and raw cabbage. Gives babies and small children tomato or orange juice every day.

Grain c-D-E 880 m m m m
After providing tomatoes and raw cabbage give as many other greens and fruits as possible.

Second, the class of foods that give fuel and aid the body to work. Dark grain foods, such as brown rice and whole wheat, are important in low-cost diets.

Grain Foods Cheap
Grain foods such as rice, hominy, bread are cheap body fuels.

Use potatoes daily. Cook them in their skins.

Sweets for children should come at the end of the meal. Foods rich in fat supply, such as bacon and butter, give flavor. But too much fat delays the digestion.

Busy Workers S. S. Class in Meeting

The Busy Workers Sunday school class of the First Baptist church held their regular meeting Wednesday evening at the church. The meeting opened with two songs, followed by a reading from the Scripture by the president, Miss Crystal Tilton, Mark 1-1-11 verses. Sentence prayers were offered with many responses. A song followed and the minutes were read. The meeting closed with the repetition of the Lord's Prayer. A delicious supper was then served during the social hour following which was much enjoyed by all.

Travel Club Met At Kerz Home

Misses Jean Wilson and Ruth Kerz entertained the members of the Travel Club at the latter's home Wednesday evening. The subject of the evening being "Parkhill's Tours of the United States." The meeting was made doubly interesting by the presence and talks of four guests: William Parkhill and Norman Miller of Champaign, Clarence Axiene of Moline and John Snowden of Joliet.

Palmyra Aid Has Meeting Wednesday

The Palmyra Mutual Aid Society met Wednesday in the basement of the Sugar Grove church in an all day meeting. A picnic dinner was enjoyed at noon after which the regular business session was held. Mrs. Elton Scholl had charge of the games which proved highly entertaining. The next meeting will be held May 10 and answer to roll call will be with garden hints, the time and place to be announced later.

CHANCE FOR ART IN THE MOVIES.
Sherwood Anderson, who is usually ranked among the half dozen finest novelists in America, believes that writing is a dead business. The "great American novel" that everybody has been waiting for, he says, will never be written; instead, we shall have a great American movie.
This, he points out, means that the ardent young writer who feels that he is a budding genius should not waste his time trying to write novels; he should look to the moving picture if he hopes to get anywhere.
"The movie really reaches the people," says Mr. Anderson. "In a small town everyone goes to the drug store after the show and talks it over, and then they go home to tell the plot to grandfather, whose bad knee has kept him in his chair, and they discuss it for a week until a new one comes."
"Movies should be simple. I am not sure I believe in propaganda movies, although Eisenstein's 'Potemkin,' with that wonderful scene of the terror on the long flight of steps, was a great work. But the movies I have in mind should be simple stories of life in this country, in America."

Just to clinch his argument, Mr. Anderson points to the contrast between the movie-maker, whose product goes before millions upon millions of people, and the novelist, who feels lucky if he reaches as many as 10,000 people.
Despite the obvious fact that the average serious novel towers above the average program movie, intellectually, as Pike's Peak towers over a prairie dog's earth mound, it is more than possible that Mr. Anderson is entirely right.
With all of its faults—and they are almost beyond counting—the moving picture does offer to the artist a field which is simply breath-taking in its breadth and scope. To date the possibilities have hardly been tapped. But they are there, waiting to be exploited; and when the exploitation comes we are quite likely to present the world with a new richness of artistic creation that will be nothing less than dazzling.
So far the arts in America have not taken very deep root in the life of the ordinary man. They have a way of resembling shoots grafted onto the main stem. The movie offers a chance for an art that springs up from the grass roots; an art that could express and transfigure the lusty, many-sided, turbulent and eternally vital life of a great nation.

DANGER OF FORECLOSURES.
Col. Leonard P. Ayres, economist, sounds a rather timely warning in connection with the current inflationary program.
At present, he says, innumerable farm mortgages are being carried by investors even though payments on interest and principal are in default. They are being carried, not because the investors are big-hearted, but because there is no market for farm land.
"Let farm prices and the price of the farm rise," remarks Colonel Ayres, "and the man who holds the mortgage may have the temptation to foreclose."
We aren't sure yet, of course, just what this new program is going to do to farm land prices. If it does put them up, the danger that Colonel Ayres mentions might become very real. Some sort of provision may have to be made to protect the debtor from a measure that was designed to help him.

CONTROLLING HARD LIQUOR.
Prof. Yandell Henderson of Yale University offers a suggestion for the control of hard liquors which at least has the merit of being new.
"After repeal of the 18th amendment," he says, "the stronger alcoholic beverages must be absolutely separated from the weaker ones and controlled essentially as morphine and cocaine are controlled under the Harrison act."
Beer and light wines, Professor Henderson says, are really in a class with tea and coffee. The strong liquors, however, ought to be classed with narcotic drugs, he believes, and should be dispensed under the same sort of laws.
It is doubtful if many repealists would go the whole way with him on this program. But his remark does emphasize the fact that the sort of control which works very well for beverages like beer might work very disastrously with whisky.

Our people are specialized workers. Thousands of them have given the best part of their lives to the government.—Postmaster General Farley.
The country will not long remain without a monetary policy because fear will be a compelling force.—Dr. Lionel D. Edie, former economist.

KEEPING BABIES IN THEIR PLACE—

Indiana Woman Found Motherhood The Necessity For Invention, And So A Thriving "Safety High Chair" Business Was Born

By NEA Service—
Cannelton, Ind. —Necessity may be the mother of invention. But it was being a mother that forced the necessity of invention onto Mrs. Elnora Lehman!

An acrobatic baby that could wiggle out of anything she put him in gave her her start. In 10 years of experimenting with her own children on her corn country farm here, Mrs. Lehman has invented innumerable new gadgets for high chairs that have radically changed styling in infants' furniture all over the United States.

"My first baby had a genius for breaking safety straps and slipping out of his chair every time I turned my back," Mrs. Lehman described her beginning as an inventor.

"He was a born acrobat. I was only 20 and simply terrified. One day he hit the floor with such a terrific whack that the doctor thought it was a fracture."

"While I was nursing him, I did some hard thinking. Then I began to make pencil sketches. With kitchen wire and a saw I began to experiment. By the time he was well enough to go back into his high chair, I had a crude sliding tray that fitted so closely about him that he couldn't wriggle through."

Resourceful Inventor
"But he was well out of the high chair and two more babies had taken their turn at it before I entirely perfected an eccentric spring that locked so that the baby couldn't move it and yet was simple enough for a mother to put in with one hand," she said, smiling.

"The close-fitting tray meant that the babies spilled their food on it instead of onto their rompers. So I had to find a way to make a finish that was easy to clean," continued the pretty brown haired matron. "I read up on wood treatments and experimented with a lot of different ideas. It was entirely by the hit and miss method of those I thought might do it. I finally got a hard wood tray that could be washed with hot water and had round edges that were easy to keep clean. And finally I got my chairs so that they would not tip over!"

Mrs. Elnora Lehman and one of her brood. Their tumble gave her the inspiration for the tip-proof, pinch-proof high chair you see here.

And So Into Business
Satisfactory as Mrs. Lehman's inventions for helping her with her own children were, it took the village doctor to convince her that other mothers would welcome her ideas. He advised calling in an engineer for advice. The engineer advised patenting her high chair improvements. She has built up a thriving business.

Nobody could be more surprised than Mrs. Lehman at her own success. But judging from the way her inventions grew out of solving her own personal problems, she thinks other mothers probably have invented innumerable baby-helps that would be welcomed if they only realized it.

Example for Mothers
"Men designers wouldn't think of things like trays that could be scrubbed with boiling water, tip-proof chairs, and eliminating the possibility of pinching babies because they don't have the care of them. Hundreds of mothers work out ideas to meet their special problems," she said modestly. "Many of them are practical for manufacture. But because she never gets out of the kitchen or nursery, the average mother only thinks in terms of her own problems. She doesn't realize that they may be universal mother problems. Perhaps they, like myself, should call in the doctor!"

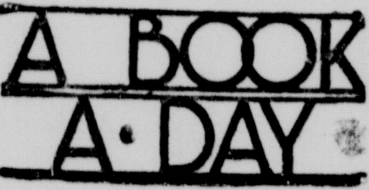

his biography "Sir Henry Morgan" by W. Adolphe Roberts, makes exciting reading.

Morgan went out to Jamaica when the colony was young and soon made himself a leader of the buccanniers. He was a free-lance for a time, but later he sailed as a recognized British sea captain—although his most famous exploit, the sacking of Panama, took place after England and Spain had signed a treaty of peace, and Morgan seems to have known it at the time.

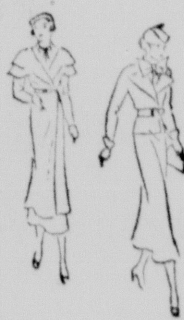

Sea fights had a small part in his program. He was a raider, instead, bringing landing parties ashore to storm fortifications and pillage cities. He was a wild roisterer, an impetuous fighter, a bit of a strategist at times and a cruel cutthroat when occasion demanded. Bloody massacres, torturing and uncontrolled debaucheries got plenty of space in his life story.

The latter part of the book drags a bit—chiefly, one suspects, because the latter part of Morgan's life also dragged. He was knighted, he became governor of Jamaica, he sued a London publisher for libel—him and won his case—imagine a pirate suing for libel—and, all in all, things got pretty dull for him. There was nothing left but to drink himself to death, which he proceeded to do with whole-hearted fervor.

Naval Hospital At Great Lakes To Be Closed By May 22

Chicago, April 26.—(AP)—Capt. Norman N. McLean, officer in charge of the Great Lakes Naval Hospital at Lake Bluff, north of here, today said the first group of patients would be transferred to the veterans' hospital in suburban Maywood in compliance with an order to close the former institution within 30 days.

There still would be 115 others who would have to be discharged by May 22, the closing date, he declared.

Dr. Hugh Scott, manager of the Maywood hospital, said the institution was amply provided to provide for the extra patients.

Of course the Tinies had real fun, as lots of circus stunts were done. Said Duncy, "Catch the zebra! I will show you how to ride."
The squirrel who rode him was real good. He did the very best he could, but I will do much better. Bring the beast right to my side."
The Midget Man said, "All right, lad, but this may turn out rather sad. The zebra's sometimes frisky. He may flap you to the ground."
Then Scouty shouted, "Let him try. He'll learn his lesson by and by." And, while wea Duncy mounted all the Tinies gathered 'round.
Off went the zebra, like a flash. Poor Duncy knew his hunch was rash. He grabbed the wild beast by the neck and tried to hang on tight.
His little feet flew up high until he thought they'd touch the sky. "Don't let go," shouted Coppy, "and I think you'll be all right."
This lasted for a little while. The Midget Man then, with a smile, said, "Well, the lad has had enough. I guess I'll halt this ride."
He promptly made the zebra stop. "Gee, I am tired enough to drop," said Duncy, as he slid off. "Thank you, sir! You saved my hide."
Two elephants stood right nearby and Mister Midget Man said, "I will now put on a little act that's really hard to do."
"I've practiced for a long, long time. Right on the elephants I'll climb. You lads are going to see a vondrous stunt, before I'm through."
In just about a minute he was standing, proud as he could be, with one foot on each elephant. And then he cried, "Giddap!"
The elephants began to run which made the old man cry, "What fun!" "He's mighty clever," Windy yelled. "Come on, lads, start to clap!" (Copyright, 1933, NEA Service, Inc.) (Two giraffes and a monkey do some stunts in the next story.)

Everyday Religion

By Dr. Joseph Fort Newton

My saints are of many sorts. Some are in the calendar of the church, and some are not. They belong to all sects and to none. They include Peter, John, Paul, Augustine, Francis, Bernard, but also Bunyan, Wesley, Spinoza, Lincoln, Emerson, and gentle John Woolman, the sad St. Francis of our new world. A goodly, glorious company they are, gracious and appealing, and I remember them with gratitude and joy.

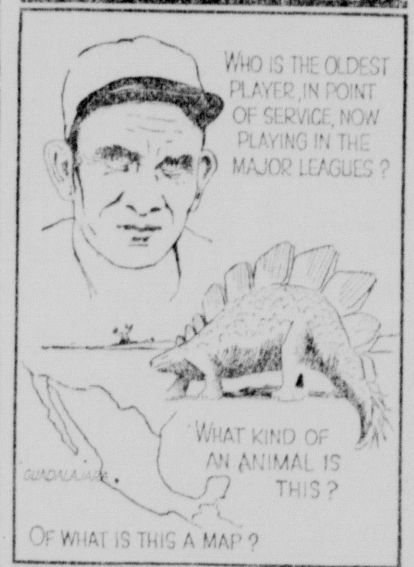

It is the sinners who elect the saints, for what saint ever imagined that he was one? No, they were humble-hearted, not knowing what their intrepid faith and courage and all-conquering love meant to others. They were men and women like ourselves who, by a more daring goodness and abject trust, won victory where we are defeated. They rebuke us, challenge us, and show us the way to the City of God.

One of my favorites among the shining ones is Theresa the Carmelite, sanest of mystics and most sensible of saints. She was witty as well as pious, merry as well as devout, and her radiant faith blended perfectly with her rippling humor. She practiced a stern self-discipline, but she detested melancholy and the religion of the long face.

"Mirth is from God," she taught, "and dullness is from the devil. You can never be too sprightly, you can never be too good-tempered." She was all for health and cleanliness, in an age when disease and dirt were still believed to indicate piety. She knew how to use a scrubbing-brush; "God dwells in the scullery, as well as in the chapel," she said. She wanted her sisters to worship with alert minds as well as wakeful hearts.

THE COLON

The colon has been facetiously called "the battle field of medicine." About this anatomic structure there has raged much dispute. In an effort to remedy certain of the maladies to which the colon is subject, surgeons have devised numerous operations.

By the lay person the colon is drowned in gallons of water and abused by a variety of irritating drugs. Fortunately, the colon has great powers of recovery. Nevertheless, it does not suffer without protest, nor yet without at times becoming subject to serious functional disorders.

Among the most common of these functional disorders are colonic delay or constipation, irritable colon, including nervous diarrhea, spastic colon, mucous colitis or catarrh of the colon, and mucous-membranous colitis.

When a patient is troubled with his colon, it is important that he establish that his difficulty is of a functional order and is not due to organic disease. This, of course, can be determined for him by a careful medical investigation.

Assuming that the difficulty is of a functional nature, the patient must cooperate with his physician in the treatment, which, apart from medical and dietetic prescriptions, includes certain general procedures.

The nervous element being prominent in such difficulties, the patient must cease to be unduly alarmed about his colon. He must avoid using laxatives or purges, except those which are specifically prescribed for him.

The patient requires regular rest, as well as an adequate amount of exercise. In certain severe cases, it may be necessary to remove the patient for a long period from the surroundings in which the derangement arose. Freak diets must be avoided.

Time is the very essence of treatment in colon difficulties. One may not with warrant expect to remedy such a condition overnight. Time is the very essence of treatment in colon difficulties. One may not with warrant expect to remedy such a condition overnight.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and snaky and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

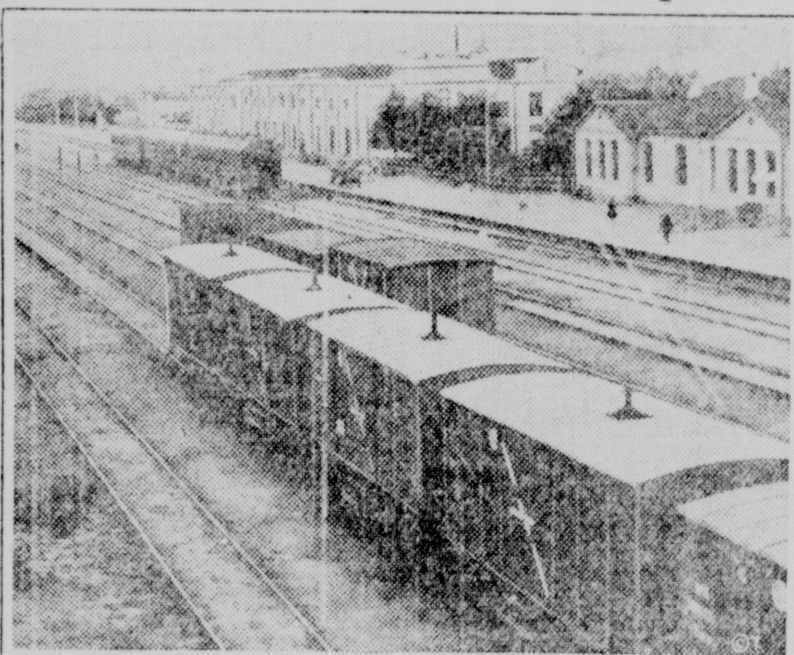

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas blows up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul. Skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resist a substitute. 25c at all stores. © 1931 C. M. Co.

A Russo-Japanese Sore Spot

A new sore spot in Russo-Japanese relations is Manchuli, rail head at the Soviet-Manchukuo border, pictured and mapped above. Manchukuo and Russia jointly operate the Chinese Eastern Railroad (A), which is the Soviets' direct route to Vladivostok, important Pacific port. Manchukuo officials have blockaded tracks at Manchuli, severing connections with Russia. This followed the Soviets' refusal to return to the Chinese Eastern 3400 cars and 80 locomotives which they allegedly hauled into Russia. Russia, meantime, is forced to use the longer northern trans-Siberian line (B) to reach Vladivostok.

CREDIT WEATHER FOR GREAT WORK OF THE PITCHERS

President Of The Junior League Explains Poor Hitting

By HUGH S. FULLERTON, Jr.
Associated Press Sports Writer

Regardless of the quite logical explanation offered by Will Harridge, American League president, that the weather is to blame for all this remarkable early-season pitching this spring, the fact remains that the slab departments of the two major leagues are doing outstanding work against the chilled batters.

The latest additions to the list of April heroes are Leroy Parmelee, of the New York Giants, who has visited the major league several times only to be farmed out each season and Oral Hildebrand, something of a veteran although he is only in his second season with the Cleveland Indians. They hurled a pair of one-hit games yesterday, each barely missing the no-hit hall of fame.

Parmelee, who spent most of the 1932 season with Columbus in the American Association, winning 14 games and losing one, won his spurs in his first start of the campaign as he turned back the slugging Phillies 3 to 1.

One Hit, One Run

The only hit off Parmelee, was a smash by Micky Finn in the third inning. It went for a double when Johnny Vergez found it too hot to hold. An outfield fly and a wild pitch turned it into a run. Finn was the only Phillie to reach second although Parmelee handed out four walks.

Hildebrand came just about as close to a no hit feat but lost it when Art Scharen cracked out a snappy single. The Indians, however, had little trouble blanking the St. Louis Browns 2 to 0 although they got only five blows off Lloyd Brown and none off Wally Hebert.

In support of the Harridge theory that cold, damp weather is responsible for such flinging feats, both these games along with a four-hit job by Owen Carroll of Brooklyn, which led to a 5-1 triumph over the Boston Braves, and a five hit game by Silas Johnson of Cincinnati in beating St. Louis 2-1, came on a day when chilly weather reigned over major league territory.

The Chicago-Pittsburgh National League game and the New York-Philadelphia contest, in the American League, were postponed because of cold and Washington and the Boston Red Sox were rained out.

Bissonette Hits

Carroll, pitching fine ball in his third start for the Dodgers, received some powerful aid from first baseman Del Bissonette, who clouted a homer, a double and a single, driving in four runs. Leo Durocher, generally a weak hitter, backed Johnson with three straight hits including the blow which started the winning rally in the ninth inning. In the remaining game on the program the Detroit Tigers went eleven innings to give the Chicago White Sox their fourth defeat of the season 6 to 4. Detroit got to Sad Sam Jones in the seventh after being held to two hits in six frames, tied the count in the ninth and won out when Fox, Webb and Gehring nicked Joe Heving for singles and Walker connected for a long fly in the eleventh.

Hooks and Slides

By WILLIAM BRAUCHER
HORSE GOSSIP—

W. R. Coe is trying again to win a Kentucky Derby—he has four colts entered—and all of them are sons of Pompey. Ladysmith is one—the others are Pomposity, Pomponson and Pomponius.

Ladysmith, Pomponson and Pomponius have won races this year—Ladysmith's victory over the six-furlong route was impressive. Pomposity is a son of Sun Briar, the best son Sun Briar ever produced, by the way. Bollemer, which is Col. E. R. Bradley's best bet for the Derby, is a big lad—he looks like a brewery steed. Bradley will not suffer his horses to be photographed while they are in training—it's a superstition.

MAN O' WAR'S GET—

Man O' War has three sons in this year's Derby. They are War Stripes, War Glory and Pre-War—the last named is a Dixiana farm colt. War Glory and War Stripes are Glen Riddle Farm horses. War Glory and Pre-War are practically cinches to start.

Sir Gallahad III, sire of Gallant Fox of fragrant memory, has one son in the Derby. The name is Fingal—an unusual name for a Bradley horse—the kumel's horses are named beginning with "B"—and Fingal is a likely starter in the Derby.

Willis Sharpe Kilmer entered seven horses in the Derby—that is trying their names are dark and light—four are sons of the 10-doubtable Tanager—Dark Conquest, Dark Fey, Dark Law and Dark Winter. Three are sons of Sun Briar—Sun Apollo, Sun Alley and Sun Envoy. Traumer was a son of Dark Ronald, which accounts for the names.

DID YOU KNOW—

Bert Baroni, Pacific coast turfman, is invading the Blue Grass this year with a couple of winners. One is Bamboula, son of North Star III, and is a Derby candidate. Waylayer is the name of the other. Three years ago Baroni scored an old-fashioned hog killing in Kentucky. Bert had three horses in three races. He parlayed them higher than a cat's back—and when Riff Raff popped down in front he had more winnings than he could count—all three winners. That year he won more than 15 valuable purses in Kentucky.

PRESIDENT BILL VEECK OF CUBS STILL SMILING

Apparently He Is Not Worried Over His Team's Slump

Chicago, April 27—(AP)—You can't rub that smile off Bill Veeck's face.

His Chicago Cubs, probably still a little shell shocked by the booming of the Yankee world series guns, are waddling about the National League cellar like permanent tenants and the surprising White Sox rivals from the south side are getting all the bouquets, but the Cub president keeps right on grinning.

When word was received that the Cubs were somewhat panic stricken because of their poor start this year on the road, reporters peeked into Veeck's office on the lookout for team shakeups and a deal or two for new playing talent. Instead they found the Cub president, still smiling and confident.

"Sure, we're off to a poor start," he replied to the usual questions, "but don't sell us short yet. We've lost six games. Last year we won the pennant by losing 64 of 'em. I haven't started worrying yet. The boys will hit their stride before long. Remember, the weather has been cold and some of the Cub players aren't polar bears."

"Looking for a new outfielder? Don't know anything about that. Naturally, we're interested all the time in getting any good players. The poor start of the team isn't caused by one player, however. Except for Hartnett none of the boys is in stride yet."

Yesterday's Stars

(By The Associated Press)

Leo Durocher, Reds—Started ninth inning rally that brought winning run against Cardinals by making his third straight hit.

Oral Hildebrand, Indians—Shut out Browns with one hit, giving only two walks and fanning five.

Del Bissonette, Dodgers—Clouted home run, double and single to drive in four runs against Braves.

Billy Rogell, Tigers—Rapped out three singles in eleven inning struggle with White Sox.

Leroy Parmelee, Giants—Pitched one hit game against Phillies, fanning six, in first game of season.

COMPTON NEWS

By Leslie G. Archer

Compton—Harold Kerchner, the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Kerchner of Rochelle, died at the local hospital early Saturday evening, from the effects of diabetes. Mr. and Mrs. Kerchner, formerly of this community, now residing on a farm near Rochelle, brought their son to the Compton hospital on Thursday in an unconscious condition, from which he never recovered, except for one short interval.

Mrs. John Holdren underwent a serious operation at the local hospital, Saturday morning of the past week. Reports from her bedside indicate she is getting along nicely. Mrs. Charles Carnahan is caring for Mrs. Holdren.

Dr. E. B. Owens and wife, entertained his brother, Dr. A. E. Owens of Princeton, on Sunday at their home here.

Dr. C. A. Hospers and Mrs. Hospers will arrive in Compton early this week to complete their trip around the world. They arrived in New York City last Tuesday, on the President Harrison, of the Dollar Line. They will come to Compton immediately, where they will make their home for a few weeks, before Dr. Hospers resumes his work at the University of Chicago.

Dr. Pool who had made the trip with his daughter, and husband, arrived here a week ago, having left the party at Budapest.

Ed Paine of Gary Indiana, spent several days here at the Roy Cook home. Mr. and Mrs. Donald Abell of Gary, who have been visiting with Mr. and Mrs. George Walter, accompanied Mr. Paine home.

Leland Cook and son has been spending the past few days with his mother, Mrs. Mae Kaufman at Mendota.

Manager Webber and his baseball recruits of the newly organized Compton baseball team, drew a 4 to 4 tie in the initial practice tilt, with Paw Paw at the local field, Sunday afternoon. Compton lead the invaders from the start.

Weakness in the ninth to let Paw Paw tie up the game, when Barsto doubled with to men on. Manager Webber used A. Chaon, W. Archer and Campbell on the mound, while Paw Paw put their hopes in McLaughlin and Barnett and were satisfied to let the practice game end in a tie, at the end of the ninth. Manager Webber will be allowed fifteen players in the league, with no player eligible if living over five miles distance from Compton. This is one of the rules of the newly formed league. Local fans were pleased to find that Joe Campbell had joined up with the local club. Grove, who will bear the brunt of the pitching assignments did not show up for the opening practice game, but Manager Webber announced he would be on hand in the important games to follow. The lineup started with E. Walters and A. Chaon for the batteries, Bohart on first, Bradshaw, second; Carnahan at short; Wayne Archer, third base. Outfield consisted of "Montie" Montavon, left; W. Chaon, center; C. Walters, right.

Next Sunday Kakusha Park of Mendota will come here for a practice game. On May 7th, the league games will officially open.

At the Compton high school, Coach Ott has kept his track squad working overtime, to prepare for the Meridian meet, at Creston on May 5th, less than one week distant. This meet will be followed by the Green River Valley Conference, at Franklin Grove. A triangular meet between Paw Paw, Rolio and Compton will be held later in the month. After the several weeks of conditioning, the Blue and White team will be fortified in all events. Cook has been showing splendid form in the dash divisions. He also will have an edge on the pole vault and broad jump events. Zinke, a veteran of several years experience will star in the 220 and 440 yard dashes. Floraschultz will toe the mark on the distance runs. Ege, Seiby and Swope are candidates in the heaving of weights. So far Coach Ott has been unable to find a formidable candidate in the high jump. D. Kaufman and McClenthen are trying out for the pole vault and jumps, and should show better

(By The Associated Press.)
From Wall Street, where stocks have perked up, to the Pacific northwest, where the lumberman's axe is swinging more busily, better business and re-employment are reported in many sections of the nation.

Chicago reports an encouraging showing in electrical consumption; Detroit in shopping; North Carolina in textile production; Miami in real estate deals; Buffalo in flour milling; Seattle in shipping; and so on down the line.

Herewith The Associated Press presents some conservative highlights of the situation:

By Claude A. Jagger (Copyright, 1933, by The Associated Press.)
New York, April 27.—(AP)—Commerce and industry in the last month have experienced one of the most striking revivals of recent years.

Sharp percentage gains reflect of course, the rebound from the extremely low levels of the March banking crisis. Nevertheless, some lines are approaching, or have actually crossed, the levels of the improved last year. Much of the improvement has been against normal seasonal trends.

The false upturns experienced previously in the depression have taught business executives to examine such bulges as the current one critically. Reports from many parts of the country, however, indicate a pronounced rebirth of confidence, together with fattening order books.

Auto Production Up
Automobile production for April, according to present indications, may show a gain over April last year. After falling to some 90,000 cars and trucks in March, the swift quickening in output this month, according to trade authorities, should carry it above the 148,300 produced in April, 1932.

Steel production has risen to the best levels in more than a year. Operations are estimated by "Iron Age" for this week at 25 per cent of capacity. The average for April last year was just under that, and for the full month of last March less than 16 per cent. Steel production usually reaches its seasonal peak in March.

Freight car loadings gained steadily in April, contrary to the seasonal trend, which usually carries them to a peak in March. The average thus far this month has been 490,000 cars, against 350,000 in March, and 489,000 in February.

Large Power Output
Last week's production of electric power in the United States, as estimated by the Edison Electric Institute, was only 2.6 per cent under the like week of last year, the smallest such divergence in 21 months. It was up 1.6 per cent over the previous week although the normal trend for the season is downward.

Latest mercantile reviews report a sustained volume of retail trade. The usual pronounced slump after Easter seems to have failed to materialize.

The moderate rise in commodity prices, coincident to inflationary psychology has evidently stimulated buying. With domestic copper prices rising from 5 3-8 cents a pound to 6 1-2, one of the largest producers reports the biggest sales in more than a year.

Many business executives express the hope that the belated seasonal upswing in business this year can be kept under way, and summer recession will be smaller than usual.

Chicago—Electricity output in the Chicago district for the week ended Saturday was 87,054,000 kilowatt hours, one per cent less than a year ago but the best showing with that one exception since September, 1931.

During National Life Insurance week $21,738,450 in new business was written in the Chicago area.

Stock exchange transactions last week were 642,000 shares, the best week since the one ended August 13, 1932.

Board of Trade transactions last week were 518,045,000 bushels of all grains, the largest week since the first week of November, 1931, when transactions were 546,174,000.

The Ford Company has increased daily production to 2,500 cars, against an original program of 2,000 daily. Thirty thousand workers, many on a five-day basis, are employed in the River Rouge plant.

San Francisco—The Federal Reserve Bank for this district says business has recovered rapidly to the February level.

Moderate gains are reported in carloadings, debits, lumber production, commodity and stock prices, with exchanges active. Canned fruit prices are up and exporters expect the lowest carryover for several years. Some manufacturers are doing more forward buying than for many months. Employment gains are noted in construction, canning, automotive plants and agriculture. The agriculture gain is partly seasonal.

The wholesale trade expansion is described as more than seasonal.

Minneapolis—The Civic Commerce Association announces that during the past six weeks a 10 to 20 per cent gross sales increase has been noted in wholesale hardware, general merchandise, farm tools, dry goods and ladies apparel. City relief had dwindled markedly in the past three weeks, with applications for estimates are being re-

Miami, Fla.—More building permits have been issued at Miami Beach this month than in any month since last September. Half a dozen good sized really deals have been recorded. Miami merchants say prospects are good for an excellent summer, the season just closed was the best since 1926, they say.

St. Louis—Harry Scullin, president of Scullin Steel, says more requests for estimates are being received than at any time in the last two and a half years. The Rice-Stix Company, one of the largest dry-goods wholesalers, say merchants are showing more interest in late summer and fall buying than in the last three years, but no appreciable pickup in immediate orders is reported.

Chicago's Unpaid Teachers Storm Loop Banks

Rallying in the bitterness of nearly a year's work without pay, 5000 Chicago school teachers are shown here gathering in Grant Park for their descent on the banks. Groups marched to several Loop banks, boosing Charles G. Dawes and other leaders for their reluctance to lend the city more money, and forced several banks to suspend business.

Lights of NEW YORK

By WALTER TRUMBULL

One of the things apartment dwellers of New York miss most is an attic. When we were young, every family had an attic and a cellar and some had outhouses as well. Much that came in the front door progressed slowly to these repositories. There were persons who made a pretense of cleaning out the attic every spring, but it always was full, a storehouse of mystery and history. There you could find things which had belonged to your grandfather and grandmother, to your parents, to your uncles, aunts and cousins, and things which nobody definitely could place, either for use or ownership. Usually the attic was floored, but frequently there were places where no boards had been laid. Then it was fun for boys to walk the beams. Occasionally an accident happened; as, for example, the time Julian Street's foot slipped and he went through the plaster up to his hip. Some of the McWilliamians family were extremely startled to see a human leg waving through the ceiling above the stair well.

But there is no such thing as an attic for those who live in New York apartments. If you are so drugged by the scent of flowers in the fields where Prosperine roamed that you let some Sicilian sell you an antique chest, so ancient that it still has fresh sawdust in all the seams, you cannot, when you get it back to the United States, just put it in the attic and forget about it. No indeed. You put it in the foyer or the hall, which is narrow enough anyhow, where it is convenient to road progressed slowly to these repositories. There were persons who made a pretense of cleaning out the attic every spring, but it always was full, a storehouse of mystery and history. There you could find things which had belonged to your grandfather and grandmother, to your parents, to your uncles, aunts and cousins, and things which nobody definitely could place, either for use or ownership. Usually the attic was floored, but frequently there were places where no boards had been laid. Then it was fun for boys to walk the beams. Occasionally an accident happened; as, for example, the time Julian Street's foot slipped and he went through the plaster up to his hip. Some of the McWilliamians family were extremely startled to see a human leg waving through the ceiling above the stair well.

BEGIN HERE, TODAY

MONNIE ODARE, who works in a Belvedere drug store and helps to support her small brother, younger sister and mother, is in love with DAN CARDIGAN, whose parents are wealthy. CHARLES EUSTACE, handsome newcomer to town, befriends her and her brother, BILL, who works in a garage. Monnie suspects SANDRA LAWRENCE, who pretends to be her friend, of undermining her with Dan. Bill plans to marry ANNE GILLEN, who works in a candy shop, as soon as she gets a divorce. Dan telephones, asking Monnie to see him, but she refuses. Monnie worries about 16-year-old KAY, disconcerted at home. Charles Eustace invites them to a dinner party.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER IX

SANDRA pursed her lips, watching her slim, cool reflection in the glass and approving it. Her frock was of white lace, deliberately ingenuous. Sandra was not the ingenue—far from it—but occasionally she chose the role.

A horn sounded below stairs and she snatched up a brief wrap of green silk and hurried out of the room. On the stairs she passed a maid in trim black.

"I'll be late tonight, Hetty. Tell Father," Sandra directed. The servant's small dark eyes flickered at her mistress for a moment with a hint of antagonism, instantly quenched. Her reply was perfectly respectful.

"Very well, Miss Sandra."

There was the rustle of soft draperies, the hint of an elusive scent on the stairs. A door slammed and gears clashed noisily. A motor purled away into the summer evening.

Lilac and rose and blue stained the western sky. The air was delightful—warm, yet fresh—and as the car slipped westward the odors of summer night in the country drifted to the nostrils of the two occupants of the car.

"Nice," purred Sandra, slipping her long, white hand, with its red jewels of pointed nails, around her escort's arm.

Dan Cardigan grinned down at her.

"Lady, you said it!" That was Dan. The argot of the man in the street served him for speech. In spite of all his background and training Dan talked, Sandra recalled, rather like a rust-about. She didn't mind. She liked everything about him. His likeness, his frown, his masculinity. Liked? Well, that was a mild word.

"Who's going to be there? At Charles' place, I mean," she queried idly.

Dan shrugged. "Dunno. Probably the Waterman crowd."

"Oh, I don't think so. I hope not," protested Sandra. "They're awfully dull. Oh, Danny, if they are you'll have to take me away early. I shall perish of boredom."

"Wait and see," advised Dan. Sandra slumped luxuriously in the roadster's low seat. After a moment she demanded, "Give me a cigaret, Danny, like an angel."

Without removing his eyes from the road, Dan produced a packet, lighted a cigaret, and put it between the pouting lips of the girl. Sandra narrowed her eyes, squinting through the smoke. Most men took advantage of such tiny intervals to snatch a kiss or two. It wasn't—it couldn't be—that Dan thought her unattractive.

"Absurd," she muttered to herself. "What did you say, Beautiful?" drawled the object of her thoughts.

She patted his coat sleeve possessively. "Nothing."

They drove on in silence for

Dan stared at the pretty face. Before he knew what was happening, his lips were pressed ardently to Sandra's provocative ones.

another minute. Then Sandra said suddenly, confidentially, "Remember what we talked about yesterday, Dan?"

A slow red burned under the man's deep tan and his voice sounded embarrassed. "Guess I said too much. Didn't mean to rave on so but Mother burned me up at lunch. I had to talk to someone."

"I know, Danny dear," Sandra was all gentle understanding. "It's difficult. It's terribly so. But—has it ever occurred to you that perhaps your mother's right?"

Dan slowed the car a little, turning to stare at her. "About Monnie, you mean? But I thought—but you said—" He seemed bewildered.

"I know, Dan. I'm terribly fond of Monnie. You know that. She's had a difficult time. She works hard. She's a splendid girl. We all know it. But here's the point—are you two suited? Is it worth all the—fuss and fighting it's sure to cause in your family? Remember, Dan, your father's awfully proud of you. He's expecting great things. You'll have a position to maintain some day. Not just here but in Cleveland—in New York. You might be—why, Dan, there's no reason at all why you shouldn't do something really big! In politics, or something like that." Her eyes widened.

"What's that got to do with Monnie?" Dan wanted to know.

Sandra hesitated. "Monnie's all right," she admitted slowly. "But—it's the family, Dan. They're—after all, we might as well face facts—they're nobody. Her brother works in a garage. Her young sister's rather wild, I hear. It's just not the sort of thing that would sound awfully good later on if a man were to go in for public life."

"Whoever said I was going in for it?" asked Dan, mildly humorous. But Sandra could see the idea had appealed to him. She pressed the point.

"All these things seem so unimportant now," she said, gently judicious. "A man doesn't know at 22 what he wants to be in 10 years. He has to plan—look ahead—or someone else has to do it for him. Many splendid men," she reminded him sweetly, "have found their lives all warped and twisted because they'd chosen the wrong sort of wives."

"But Monnie isn't—" Dan began protestingly.

"I know, Dan. I know. Haven't I," asked Sandra, smiling ruefully, "done everything possible to help Monnie? Not that I think it's done much good, really. I'm afraid, deep down, she doesn't honestly like me."

She sighed and brushed at her eyes lightly with a whisper of chiffon and lace.

"No, Danny, dear," she continued, still in that dulcet, stately tone. "I can see both sides of the question. I see yours and Monnie's and I see your parents' who are proud of you and want the best. How can they be sure it's not just a boy and girl infatuation? How can anyone of us know it isn't?"

Dan growled something unintelligible and averted his car into the driveway curving before the little old stone and timber house where Charles Eustace lived.

"Don't be cross, Danny-boy," pleaded Sandra prettily as they came to a halt under the porte cochere. "You know I want the best for you, too, don't you?"

She was very close to him. Dan, hurt, puzzled and somehow definitely annoyed, stared down at the pretty face lifted to his. Before he knew what was happening his lips were pressed ardently to Sandra's provocative ones. There was a sigh and then Sandra slipped out of his grasp and through the door.

"Danny, I can't imagine what's getting into us," she breathed, scandalized.

"I'm sorry—didn't mean—" muttered the man, following her. In Sandra's long-lashed eyes was a suppressed glimmer of triumph.

MONNIE felt her heart stand still. She had been in the embrasure overhanging the drive, watching the sunset. She had been utterly unprepared for the shock of seeing Sandra arrive with Dan. For an instant, not meaning to, she had stared at the pair below. Then she had seen Dan's face hover for an instant close to the girl's—had seen the sudden, brief but passionate kiss that followed. She felt sick and faint. Her blood hummed in her ears. Where should she go—what should she do to escape?

She turned, like a hunted thing. There was a sharp rat-a-tat at Charles' knocker now. The servant was hurrying in response. None of the people in the little dreside group—neither Kay, sparklingly pretty in her old pink oranda, nor Charles Eustace, the host, nor his New York friend, Webster, Hallam—had witnessed the tableau. Monnie alone knew what had passed between Sandra and Dan just before the opening of the door.

She braced herself to meet them. "Hello, Dan!"

"Hello, Monnie. This is nice," the shadow of annoyance crossed Sandra's mobile countenance and was instantly erased. "Monnie, darling. What fun!" Sandra was more effusive than usual.

"That, thought Monnie, was her guilty conscience."

"Cocktails, everybody!" Charles Eustace, very splendid in his white flannels and double-breasted blue coat, held up the shaker. "That is, everybody but Miss Kay. She's a baby and can only have orange juice."

Kay pouted without really meaning it. Monnie, usually so concerned over all that happened to her young sister, scarcely heard. She was in a maze—she scarcely knew what to do or to say. Sandra and Dan! Then it was true. It was true! Her instinct had warned her, time after time, and her instinct had been right.

"Here's to you!" Charles Eustace said, saluting her. He drank. He offered her his arm. "Will you let me take you in to dinner?"

First Dual Meet Of Season Friday

Dixon Vs Mendota

By DON HILLHELE
 Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock, the track and field meet of the 1933 season is scheduled for the Lincoln Statue Drive athletic field with Mendota and Dixon high schools furnishing the entertainment.

A newcomer in the Dixon ranks and a promising future great is Thompson, a freshman. Although still having trouble with starting this fresh is one of the best prospects in years. Along with Cooper, Strong, Snader, Flannery, Dixon has a fine group of sprint men.

Last year in Mendota the locals triumphed easily by a 35-27 score. Mendota coached by Rufus DeWitz, a former star at the University of Nebraska, possesses one of the best athletic plants in this section of the state. On May 6 the North Central schools will trek to Mendota for the annual conference meet.

Falling Downstairs Caused 1,800 Deaths

London.—Falling downstairs, out of bed, and over broom handles and buckets, may be road accidents in most cases, but they caused the death of almost 1,800 women last year.

Sidelights In News In Capital Of United States

By HERBERT PLUMMER

WASHINGTON—A veteran six-term member in the House from Nebraska, who suggests William Jennings Bryan in his personal appearance has scored another victory in a crusade he has waged relentlessly since first coming to Capitol Hill. Edward Howard has long been in the front ranks of those championing liberalization of the rules under which the House operates. Apparently, for the time being at least, the effort to tighten up the present rules of that body has been abandoned. Word has gone out from the Democratic leaders that there will be no hurry about seeking action on the proposal to require 218 members instead of 145 (as at present) to sign a petition forcing a vote on a measure, regardless of what a committee might do.

RALLYING FOR BATTLE—

This development came just after some 50 Democrats in the House had assembled in what was described as a rump caucus to fight the 218 rule. Howard presided over the caucus.

Nothing much was said publicly afterward about this phase of the caucus. There was a committee appointed, headed by Howard, to request the proper committee to give them time to discuss the subject when it came on the floor.

But nearly everybody knew that was the principal thing discussed. Howard has been fighting "gag" rule ever since he came to Congress. He has spared neither the leaders of his own nor those of the opposing party.

Near the close of the last Congress, in a 20-minute speech, he dressed down Speaker Garner for "gagging" in a manner that threw the House into gales of laughter.

'FREE DEMOCRAT'—

"He (Garner) used to put his arms around me lovingly, like a brother," said Howard, "and say: 'Do not worry about it, Old Roman. There may come a day when we will control this House and in that day this damnable practice (of gagging) will be stopped.'"

The Nebraskaan is proud of the title of "Free Democrat." Once used to put that description in his personal biography in the Congressional Directory. He is a member of that little group, composed of liberals of all parties in the House, who meet once or twice a week to formulate their own ideas on current legislation.

Only ICE

Protects Food from Impure Air.

ADVANTAGES OF ELECTRIC REFRIGERATOR: Convenience, Frozen Desserts, Ice Cubes, No Ice Man, No Drain Pipe, No Traps to Clean.

DISADVANTAGES OF ELECTRIC REFRIGERATOR: There are 13 major parts to an electric refrigerator — each one a hazard to good and efficient refrigeration all the time. For the perfect machine (perpetual motion) is still awaiting discovery.

When electric power stops there is no refrigeration. When machine breaks down there is no refrigeration. It is necessary to wait for an experienced repair man. Not always available.

Breakdown occurs when refrigerator is needed most. When new or left idle you have a wait of four to six hours for refrigeration.

Impossible to properly clean and sterilize the freezing unit in most electrical refrigerators because there are two or more sides that cannot be reached.

Clean out ice cube trays every third day and remove trays while defrosting.

Gases generated by all foods, bacteria, their spore, eggs and all free moisture forms a frost on the freezing unit.

When this frost is one-half inch thick it is necessary to defrost because—when it increases over this amount—temperatures rise and there is a refrigeration loss, which in turn causes the motor to run longer and more often; this results in higher electric bills.

When the free moisture freezes on the freezing unit the air becomes dry (no humidity). Liquids evaporate and moist foods dry out rapidly.

When food compartment is dry, bacteria, gases and odors settle in liquids or on foods that quickly absorb odors.

Do not keep bananas in an electric.

Meats should be kept covered to prevent loss of flavor; vegetables should be sprinkled and kept covered. All other foods should be kept covered to prevent drying out.

There is nothing in the food compartment to clean the circulating air and at the same time carry the gases, bacteria, their spore out for there is no melting ice water and no drain pipe.
